

$200K deficit at Scotch Line landfill

by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff

The Scotch Line landfill in Minden Hills will have a large deficit for 2018, and it will be up to the township's new council to figure out how that deficit is handled.

During a Nov. 22 council meeting, councillors received a staff report detailing expenses at the Scotch Line site for the year. Staff is projecting a deficit of $195,000 for the landfill for 2018.

"Obviously, it's been a year of surprises at the Scotch Line," said Mayor Brent Devolin. "We've been through them. I think none of us thought this was coming for free or little, but I feel like I've woken up with a bill and a hangover from a big night the night before. So, I would say, on a constructive note, obviously where we go forward with the landfill, in our budgetary discussions this year, where we're at, where we still need to get to be with respect to our partners in the Ministry of Environment and integrating into that 25-year plan, we have some serious heavy lifting to do."

In 2017, the township received two provincial orders from what was then called the

Truck crashes into iconic resort building

by SUE TIFFIN

The main buildings of Miners Bay Lodge resort on Hwy. 35 are so recognizable to passersby that if something is amiss with the iconic scene, they take notice. Especially if what they're seeing is a destroyed front porch and a cube van on its side on the front lawn of the resort.

Concerned phone calls to Laura Harkness, general manager, and Harland Doige, property manager of the lodge started coming in from friends and neighbours in the early evening on Nov. 24 after a van travelling south from Minden crashed into the approximately 100-year-old main lodge building, which was shut down for the season and empty of guests at the time. The two occupants of the van received minor injuries.

"Seeing the pictures for the first time was kind of like, oh boy," said Harkness. "The Ministry of Environment and Climate Change related to the Scotch Line landfill; one demanding remediation measures to address the amount of leachate on the property, and another regarding the improper storage of hazardous materials. There have been several on-site visits in 2018 from what is now called the Ministry of Environment, Conservation and Parks, and those visits have resulted in several directions to staff.

"The directions included seagull mitigation, daily cover requirements and removal of the construction waste pile," read a report from environmental and property operations manager Ivan Ingram. Meeting those requirements resulted in an increase in expenditures. Those costs included extra trucking and extra covering, with those services provided by area contractors. The township also hired a firm to mitigate the problematic seagull population at the landfill, and a visit from the Ministry of Labour resulted in the township renting portable offices for landfill attendants after it was deemed the attendant sheds that were in place were not suitable.

While $126,000 had been budgeted for operations at the site, expenditures ended up totalling more than $320,000, for a deficit of approximately $195,000.

Because the current Minden Hills council is in "lame duck" period, meaning it cannot make any substantial financial decisions, how the township goes about dealing with the deficit will be a decision for the new council, set to be sworn in Dec. 3.

Ingram told councillors the township had been doing what it was instructed to do by the ministry, but that the ministry didn't like the way it was being done, so some changes were required. In general, he said more money would need to be allotted for operations at the Scotch Line site.

"In order to do what council's expecting of us on that site, we're going to have to spend some money," Ingram said. He indicated he'd be suggesting the new council take a look at bringing some operations that are currently contracted out in-house at the township, adding that would require equipment purchases and the hiring of additional staff.

"They kind of offset each other," he said. "I'll explain that at budget time."

"I would say, I would like to see a very proactive [approach], with a plan where we're ahead of the curve in having conversations, and knowing the expenditures," Devolin said.

Noting that Dysart et al has some of its waste shipped, Councillor Jean Neville asked if there would be consideration given to doing the same thing in Minden Hills.

"Are you going to include that option, and possible costs," Neville asked.

Ingram said that option could be explored, and that as for costs, it was the type of service that would have to undergo a request for proposals.

"We're sorting everything now so it's easy to load and get out of there, it's just a matter of finding the best company at the best price to do that," he said.

Devolin said he thought there was interest from the councils of the county's other lower-tier townships about taking a regional approach to some waste disposal issues.

"The other three municipalities have an appetite to have a collaborative conversation," he said.

corner, it's gone. That post is just gone. You've got some windows that actually were still hanging, intact, with nothing holding them in place ... you're like, oh boy. It was surreal. It felt like, all right, a van hit the building. And you see it and hope no one was hurt."

Harkness, who said she is not aware of any sort of similar accident happening in the 80 years prior to her becoming general manager just last month, said the incident was a bit of a "curve ball."

"We have always had the highway out front, which has always been a concern, but knock on wood we've never had an issue with it, especially in our main season, so this is pretty rare," she said. "It was very weird."

A structural engineer will determine the extent of the damage and contractors will begin work to rebuild when the weather allows. Ideally the porch will be repaired prior to next year's summer season. Harkness credited Doige for being on scene and acting quickly to deal with the unexpected situation.

"It's a very picturesque and very recognized picture of the front of the property," she said. "Those two buildings off the highway have been one of our main pictures on a postcard. It's very iconic and it's going to be a little different. We're going to try and obviously repair it to the original look."

No charges were laid in the accident, which was, according to the collision report, deemed to be weather-related said Sgt. John Spence.

"Basically the weather was not so good, from what I understand, the road conditions were not so good," said Spence. "They lost control, went up into the porch of ... Miners Bay Lodge."

Haliburton Highlands OPP attended the scene.

Changes for 'double-hatters' welcome news

by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff

The Ford government has tabled legislation proposing changes to firefighting services, legislation that is welcome news to small communities across Ontario including the municipalities of Haliburton County.

Those changes, part of the government's Bill 57 introduced mid-November, will eliminate some existing barriers to what is known as "double-hatting." Double-hatters are full-time firefighters who serve with departments other than the one where they are centrally employed, such as the volunteer fire departments in the communities where they live.

The firefighters' union has essentially outlawed the practice. Seeking to unionize part-time positions, the union has taken disciplinary action against double-hatters in the past, including issuing suspensions and fines. Its position has largely involved concerns around liability when double-hatters are injured.

The volunteer fire departments in Haliburton County have lost professionally trained members who've left their volunteer positions for fear of disciplinary action by the union.

"They were prevented mostly because of internal union rules, but it affected mostly our rural communities," said Haliburton-Kawartha Lakes-Brock MPP and Ontario Labour Minister Laurie Scott, during an announcement regarding the legislation at the Minden Hills fire hall on Nov. 24. "We have a lot of professional firefighters living in rural communities in Ontario, and they couldn't volunteer back into their communities."

Scott noted the change has been a top request from organizations including the Association of Municipalities of Ontario and the Rural Ontario Municipal Association. Along with changes to rules around double-hatting, the legislation also makes changes to interest arbitration when it comes to negotiations with firefighting unions, giving more bargaining power to municipalities in the process.

"This is not a new issue for me, I've been discussing this issue for 15 years," said Scott, who'd advocated for legislative changes to allow double-hatting during her many years as an Opposition MPP. "So, my entire time I've been elected, I've been trying to get legislation brought in to protect the double-hatter firefighters."

Scott was made an honorary fire chief at an Association of Ontario Fire Chiefs conference earlier this month.

"On behalf of me and the rest of the Haliburton County

Ontario Labour Minister and Haliburton-Kawartha Lakes-Brock MPP Laurie Scott, fifth from left, joined local politicians and firefighters for an announcement at the Minden Hills fire hall on Nov. 24. The province is making legislative changes that will make it easier for full-time firefighters to also be members of volunteer fire departments. /CHAD INGRAM Staff fire chiefs, we're ecstatic about the news," said Algonquin Highlands fire chief Mike Cavanagh. "This has been a long-standing issue within the service for as long as I can remember, and definitely the tone in the room from across the province is very joyous and happy that we were able to put this issue to bed, finally. And the fact that it happened so quickly is wonderful. We're truly happy for the work Minister Scott's done on this issue."

Cavanagh said the changes would protect existing members of local departments, and may allow for members who've left to return. "It provides protection for double-hatters that we already have that are maybe trying to stay low key and fly under the radar with their unions," he said, "as well as, hopefully we'll be able to recruit some of those firefighters we've lost in the past, as well as maybe recruit some new professional firefighters that might be living in the area as well."

Volunteer fire departments can sometimes serve as a sort of training ground for those who go on to careers in professional firefighting, and Cavanagh said such individuals would now be able to continue to volunteer in the communities where they started out.

"When we hire young people, and they go on to further careers, they will still be able to work in the municipality that they've started with, which is wonderful," he said.

"We're very proud to have you as an honorary fire chief," Cavanagh told Scott.

County politicians are also thrilled with the changes. "Certainly, in the region, not just Minden Hills, but rural Ontario, this is a huge benefit," said Minden Hills Mayor Brent Devolin, adding it was advantageous for communities with volunteer fire departments to be able to draw on the technical capabilities of professionally trained firefighters.

"They're in our jurisdictions and involved with our fire services . . . that's a huge benefit, and they can do it without recourse," Devolin said.

Devolin added issues such as interest arbitration "manifest themselves in costs that aren't truly appreciated," and applauded those changes as well.

"I know there are a lot of changes that people aren't happy about, but this is definitely a change to be happy and joyous about today," he said.

Like Scott, Algonquin Highlands Mayor Carol Moffatt has also spoken for years about the need for reform when it comes to double-hatters.

"I've been a strong advocate for the double hatter issue and I'm pleased to see this legislation," Moffatt told the Times. "I understand the union's perspective but I don't agree with it. I don't think it has any business telling firefighters what they can and can't do on their personal time. Rural departments like ours are struggling with recruitment and retention, and career firefighters are value-added members whose efforts should be welcomed, not quashed. At one time, the Stanhope Fire Department had five careered firefighters amongst its ranks and we were proud of that. In turn, our volunteer departments have inspired numerous young folks to pursue firefighting as a career and we're proud of that, too."

Scott said the legislation should be passed within a couple of weeks.

Happy hatters

SOME READERS MAY have noticed there's been some criticism of the policies of the Ford government in this space in recent months, and so it's fair to acknowledge when the province's new administration is doing something very right, which it is with new legislation affecting double-hatters.

For those unaware, double-hatters are professional, full-time firefighters who also serve with departments other than the ones where they are centrally employed. This can mean serving part-time with another department, or, in the case of small communities such as the townships of Haliburton County, being a member of a volunteer department.

For the past couple of decades, the practice of double-hatting has been, well, under fire by the firefighters' union, which, seeking to unionize part-time positions, has disciplined double-hatters with fines and suspensions. The union's position has involved concern over responsibilities surrounding liability.

This has meant that many volunteer fire departments, including those of the townships of the county, have lost members over the years; members who were full-time firefighters in larger centres who left local departments for fear of repercussions from the union. Others have continued on, trying to fly under the radar.

The legislative changes – introduced a couple of weeks ago as part of the government's Bill 57, and which should be passed within the next couple of weeks – mean full-time firefighters will be able to volunteer in their communities without fear of reprisal.

It's difficult to understate how important this is for small, rural communities, which uniformly rely on volunteer departments. As is typical in the county, fire departments may have one or two full-time employees – typically a chief and perhaps a training officer as well – but the bulk of members are volunteers. The changes mean that some double-hatters who have left in the past may return. It means young people from the community who go on to become professional firefighters elsewhere can still volunteer in their hometowns. Not only does this help to keep the population of volunteer departments up, but those departments benefit from the knowledge and technical skill of professionally trained firefighters.

CHAD INGRAM

It's clear that Haliburton-Kawartha Lakes-Brock MPP and Ontario Labour Minister Laurie Scott has been directly involved in this coming to fruition, and she should be acknowledged and thanked for it. In nearly 15 years as an Opposition MPP, Scott advocated for changes for double-hatters, and it's obvious she's been able to use her clout in cabinet to help make those changes happen, and in short order. Scott was made an honorary fire chief by the Association of Ontario Fire Chiefs at a convention earlier this month.

This is a big win for small communities in Ontario.

Learning the ropes

IHAVE BEEN A fan of tying and learning knots, hitches, loops and bends ever since I was a little kid. This spark was first lit when they taught me to tie my own shoelaces, but the flame was fully ignited when I realized that I could crawl up behind my friends and tie theirs together too.

Ever since then, I have been fascinated by knot craft. Obviously, learning to recognize and tie knots is important to an outdoorsman. If you know knots, when the canoe flies off the roof racks of the car, you can look at your friend and say, "I guess I shouldn't have relied on those granny knots."

There was a time when I could name and tie somewhere around 25 different knots but that still did not help me when it came to successfully tying my shoelaces.

The thing is in the outdoors you rely on a few tried and true knots and hardly ever use the others. So every now and then, you need to find your handy book on knots and take a bit of a refresher course. I typically do this during the winter when watching TV.

This is something you should not do in the bedroom, however. I have learned from experience that when your better half walks into the bedroom and sees you practising a handcuff knot, they often immediately hide your book on knots and practice rope for a good long time. If he or she walks in as you are practising this knot blindfolded, it's even worse. I'm still not sure why.

This is a shame because, and maybe this is the hot chocolate speaking, it seems to me that knowing a few good knots makes you a far more interesting and well-rounded person. I mean, name one person who doesn't love a good Prusik knot.

I'm not exactly a social butterfly but even I know that when you are at a gathering and no one reacts positively to the fact that you just tied an Alpine Butterfly Knot out of the bride's train, it's time to slip out the back door.

Having said that, just because you know a knot doesn't mean you should use it. For instance, I would never use a fireman's chair knot unless the elevator was out and I was higher than the first floor – but only because that knot has a tendency to pinch.

Also, it's never OK to lasso a person or group of people. I know that now.

My point is anyone who owns a rope ought to know a variety of knots – at least until the international Velcro conglomerates seize total control of the market. Admittedly, some people do not get as excited about a Carrick bend as I do. But, you know what? I'm OK with them preferring the Sheet Bend. After all, that's the beauty of having so many incredible rope connecting options.

Having said that, I know several outdoorsman who have skipped right past learning how to tie a variety of useful, bends, knots, loops and hitches and instead rely on a proven few. And that's their loss, I suppose. That says a lot about the temperament of some people.

As for myself, I am knotty by nature.

A man and his messages

THERE ARE DAYS when you look around and see too many mean-spirited jerks. Then you turn on the television and meet Tim Green. Green appeared on the 60 Minutes television news show recently and provided viewers with some much needed inspiration.

He was a star linebacker and defensive end who played eight seasons with the Atlanta Falcons of the National Football League. He retired as an active player in 1993, then really got busy.

He earned a law degree, joined a New York State legal firm, became a television commentator on PBS, Fox and ABC and began writing. He has published more than three dozen books in the adult suspense and youth sports genres.

One of his books, Unstoppable, debuted at No. 2 on the New York Times bestseller list. It is about a troubled 14-year-old boy who finds a real life in playing football, only to have to face a fierce fight against cancer.

JIM POLING SR.

From Shaman's Rock

Green has made 1,200 school visits, speaking to more than half a million school kids about the importance of reading books and getting a good education. He urges the children to read 20 minutes every day.

"Reading is weightlifting for the brain," he has said.

His main message is: Put school before sports and think of success not as fame and fortune, but in terms of kindness and personal relationships.

It's an important, powerful message but unfortunately Tim Green won't be able to deliver it himself for much longer. He is dying, which is a tragedy because when you watch him for only a few minutes you wish the world had millions more humans like him.

A couple of weeks ago he made a Facebook post announcing that he is suffering from amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS), commonly known as Lou Gehrig's disease. Gehrig was a professional baseball player diagnosed with the disease in the 1930s.

Green has a slow moving form of the disease but ALS always is fatal. It affects the nerves in the brain and spinal cord, weakening muscles and making it difficult to talk, walk, eat and breathe.

He was diagnosed two years ago after having difficulty using his hands. He had trouble using nail clippers and opening things with his fingers. A hand surgeon told him he had ALS and a neurologist told him to get his affairs in order.

The disease is threatening his voice but on the television show he was able to say that the best time of his life is right now. "I have everything," he said.

Despite the ALS his purpose is "the same as it was before: be the best husband, best dad, lawyer, writer, businessperson I can be. And also to tackle ALS."

"I can still write and that opens up a universe."

He has been writing his latest books on his smartphone, typing the words with his thumbs. He has a sensor in his eyeglasses that helps him to see and type the letters.

"People will say, 'God bless you,'" Green said, "and I would say, He already has."

Eighty per cent of ALS patients die within two to five years of diagnosis, says the ALS Society of Canada. It says an estimated 3,000 Canadians currently are living with ALS and that the disease is responsible for two or three deaths each day.

Green is a driving force behind ALS fundraising efforts, notably the website www.TackleALS.com/teams/Atlanta-Falcons. He appears in a video there, wearing his trademark No. 99 Falcons jersey.

Dr. Merit Cudkowicz, professor of neurology at Harvard Medical School, says in the ad that the number of ALS diagnoses will grow by 70 per cent over the next 20 years. She does not give reasons for that large increase, however, presumably it comes from the fact that the disease strikes mainly people ages 40 to 70 and the world's population is aging.

Some research suggests that military veterans are 1.5 to two times more likely to get ALS. Researchers have suggested that exposure to toxins during warfare, and strenuous physical activity, might be reasons why military veterans and athletes seem more at risk to developing the disease.

Meanwhile, Green continues to deliver his messages of inspiration.

"Life can never be long enough," he told the 60 Minutes audience.

'Unshoe' your feet

I AM GOING TO admit publicly right here and now that I was wrong. Those who know me will know this is a big deal. Years ago, when barefoot running or running in those ridiculous looking five-fingered shoes became popular, I was dead set against it. My tune has changed. I incorrectly thought that humans were not meant to run on pavement without cushioned shoes. I was also adamant about having arch support at all times. I now know from experience that I was wrong.

The number one job of our feet is to be sensors for the body so that we are aware of what is happening on the ground that we are moving along. Wearing shoes has impeded that ability. The foot is made up of 26 bones, 33 joints and hundreds of muscles, tendons and ligaments. By wearing stiff footwear we have restricted the natural movement of our feet. Imagine spending the day with your hand shoved into a mitten made of a thick plastic. That's not an inviting idea, and it begs the question: Why do we do that to our feet?

Take a moment now and spread your fingers as wide as you can. It feels good, doesn't it? Now do the same with your toes. You may not be able to spread them apart very much. Don't fret if you can't because you can change that, and here are some ideas on how to get started:

- Spend more time barefoot. Focus on walking with your toes spread, and with your weight slightly forward.

LAURIE SWEIG

Practical Fitness

- Spread your toes often. Either do this by putting your fingers between your toes (great activity while binge watching Netflix) or getting a set of toe spreaders. As with anything new, start with a few minutes at a time and build up from there as your toes adjust to the new position.

- Massage your feet using a lacrosse ball (any ball will do, but the lacrosse ball works well). Starting with a minute of rolling back and forth the length of your foot. Then, with your heel on the ground do a side-to-side movement.

These activities will start the process of "unshoeing" your feet. The goal is to loosen up every part of your foot so it can do what it was meant to do. It will take time.

It's taken me eight months. It has been worth it. I'm not experiencing some of the aches and pains that I was before. I have always believed that our feet are our foundation. Where I was wrong was in believing that we had to protect our feet instead of using them in every single way they were meant to be used.

I am considering buying a pair of those five-fingered shoes now, when I finish eating crow!

Something to think about.

Carollers gather at Dorset tree lighting

DORSET NEWS

Lee Ross

burgesslt@me.com

Dorset's annual Christmas Tree Lighting took place on Sunday, Nov. 25 at the fire hall. Unfortunately the Pavilion decorating that takes place beforehand had to be postponed due to the wet conditions at the Pavilion. People gathered around the bonfire and enjoyed hot chocolate just after 4 p.m. and the siren on top of the fire hall sounded around 4:30 to let everyone know the tree lighting was going to begin.

Kerry Lock stood up and talked about the history of the tree lighting and read off the names of the people who lit the tree in the past. This year Boyd and Diane Griffin did the honours.

Once the tree was lit, sheets of Christmas songs were handed out and everyone joined in to sing. When everyone was sufficiently frozen they made their way in to the Rec Centre for a warm dinner and some Christmas shopping. The turnout was good and everyone had a great time.

Tickets to Charles Dickens' A Christmas Carol are on sale now! They're $20 each and can be purchased from me at Coldwell Banker in Dorset from Tuesday to Saturday between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Children 12 and under are free with a donation to the Winter Pantry (to be brought the night of the play).

When purchasing tickets please specify if any are for children as we need to account for them so we don't go over capacity. A Christmas Carol is taking place on Wednesday, Dec. 18 from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at the Dorset Recreation Centre.

Members and Friends of Knox United Church are collecting gift cards to donate to the Health Hub as their special White Gift project again this Christmas. The Hub passes out gift cards to clients as needed. Last year's cards were greatly appreciated and utilized throughout the year. You're invited to bring a gift card to the 11:30 AM church service on Dec. 16 or drop off a gift card at the Hub.

Happy birthday to Gina Baum. For birthdays and submissions please send them to burgesslt@me.com.

Proposed snowmobile trails present red flags for some

by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff

A proposal from the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association requesting that the Township of Minden Hills allow the association to use unopened road allowances for approximately seven kilometres of new trails near Minden is causing concern among some residents.

Township councillors heard from a number of residents during a crowded Nov. 22 public regarding the proposal.

The proposal entails the use of four, unopened road allowances, three of them north of the village of Minden, between Minden and Twelve Mile Lake. One is an unopened road allowance between Fleming Road and Scotch Line Road; the second is an unopened road allowance between Scotch Line Road and Plantation Road; and a third is an unopened road allowance between Plantation Road and Twelve Mile Lake Road.

The fourth is located in the South Lake area, and is an unopened road allowance between the hydro corridor and Kendrick Creek Lane.

Some residents said they were supportive of the use, given certain caveats. A man who lives in the Fleming Road area said that a walking link between Fleming Road and Scotch Line Road should be maintained.

"People on foot should be able to walk that trail," he said. He also said there should be stop signs erected at every intersection between the proposed snowmobile trails and plowed roadways.

Other residents were opposed to the proposal, citing concerns such as noise, trespassing and safety.

"My experience with snowmobiles is negative," one resident of the Plantation Road area told councillors, adding he intended to run electric fencing along an area of his property to protect his livestock.

"Is the grader going to be coming down the road?" he asked, explaining his children walked the roadway in order to get to the bus stop.

Another resident of the Plantation Road area told councillors she'd purchased her property for peace and tranquility, and because it did not abut a snowmobile trail. She said having snowmobiles on the unopened road allowance would mean others would not be able to use it.

"Really, if the snowmobiles are using it, it's too dangerous for anyone else to," she said.

Some property owners told councillors they wanted liability protection in case trespassing snowmobilers were injured on their properties and some said they'd like to see some kind of environmental impact assessment performed.

"I've heard a lot of comments about trespass and liability, as well as safety concerns," Minden Hills planner Ian Clendening told the room. "To address those, I think that just exists in the general world, regardless of what we do."

In terms of environmental impacts, "This is not like we are constructing a bridge, or anything," Clendening said. "The snowmobile association is not going to be developing in those areas."

Clendening said there was no identified need for an environmental impact study.

Councillors decided to allow the first road allowance – a 0.4-kilometre stretch between Fleming Road and Scotch Line Road to be used – and citing concerns raised at the public meeting deferred discussion on use of the other three, requesting further information from the HCSA to address residents' concerns.

Kids who care invited to community giving circle

by SUE TIFFIN
Times Staff

One hundred caring kids in Haliburton County are coming together to make a difference in the community and learn the importance of philanthropy.

In February next year, 100 Kids Who Care is planning to launch a local giving circle for kids in kindergarten up to Grade 12.

The group follows successful models of Guys That Give and Women Who Care charity events throughout the world, in which a group of people come together to hear about local charities, nominate a winner and make a group donation pooled from individual efforts.

In adult groups, generally each participant brings $100, resulting in a $10,000 donation for a charity that's raised in an hour.

100 Kids Who Care is inviting kids from throughout the county to take part, with each child nominating a local charity of their choosing.

Two meetings held annually – one in the spring and one in the fall – will bring kids together with $10 each.

The top three organizations nominated will be invited to attend the meeting to present their charity to the kids, and share how they would benefit from receiving a donation.

After a vote, the charity that is chosen by the kids will receive a donation up to $1,000 at the end of the evening.

At the next meeting, the winning charity returns to present on how the donation was used, and what kind of impact it made in the community.

The initiative is being organized by Cheryl Hamilton and Joleen Thomas, both local moms of three.

Hamilton had been inspired by the concept and researched the idea last year, while Thomas said she had been moved by her nephew's involvement in a similar Lindsay-based group. "I was inspired by what the message was for young people, and the delivery was pretty unique," said Thomas.

When she posted on social media about the possibility of a local group bringing kids together to determine interest, the response was overwhelming, and helped to connect the two moms.

Though 100 Kids Who Care is coming together because of the planning of Hamilton and Thomas, meetings will be entirely child-led, with kids taking the lead on everything at the meetings from overseeing the registration table to hosting.

Meetings will also offer time for participants to share with their peers how they earned their $10 to contribute.

"I just love the concept of it, teaching our children that they have the power to make an impact right here in our community, all while learning about all the amazing local organizations," said Hamilton. "...It's all about the kids and empowerment."

"The community aspect of it was the biggest lure," said Thomas of her interest in organizing. "And I wanted my children to become involved, staying in our own community felt better than driving to Lindsay."

Parents and their children responding to news of the group have been thrilled, with registration forms already being submitted and kids looking forward to the first meeting to get started.

Additionally, the group is teaching the importance of year-round giving and has implemented the 100 minutes challenge, encouraging kids to put 100 minutes of their time and energy into helping family, friends or groups and organizations outside of 100 Kids Who Care meetings.

"By doing so, we are learning that giving our time is equally as important as giving money," said the organizers.

The first 100 Kids Who Care meeting will be held in Minden, with the community centre space rental fee being sponsored by Curry Chevrolet Buick GMC Ltd. The second meeting of the group will be held in a Haliburton location.

Hamilton and Thomas are not anticipating any difficulty in finding 100 kids who are wanting to get involved.

"It's Haliburton County," said Hamilton. "We're a community that pulls together for everything ... The fact that the kids see first-hand what a huge impact their contributions will make is success in itself."

"People are looking for ways to make a difference and to show their children and communities that working together, we can accomplish great things," said Thomas.

"I'm so excited to get the ball rolling with this," said Hamilton. "Inspiring our children to make a difference and helping them grow into adults who believe they can change the world."

The inaugural meeting of 100 Kids Who Care is scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 9 at the S.G. Nesbitt Community Centre in Minden from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. Children 10 and under must be accompanied by an adult. For more information and to register in advance, visit the group's Facebook page by searching 100 Kids Who Care Haliburton County.

An evening of hilarity, festivity and song brought people together at the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion on a cold and drizzly Saturday night to raise money for Fuel for Warmth.
The fifth annual Highlands Christmas

Shindig once again wrapped the community in a warm embrace while bringing in an impressive $27,220 for the local charity. Performances included music by Nick Russell and Rob Muir; Sylvan Shore; Tomorrow Never Knows; The Rockin' Bobs; Jerelyn Craden; and Slinky and the Boys.

Demand for fuel was up 18 per cent last winter

The Highlands Little Theatre performed a scene about re-gifting presents and Steve Galea entertained with humorous anecdotes.

The evening's MC was Dame Beatrice

(Mike Jaycock) with colour commentary by Sir Cedric Bridlington (Peter Jaycock) and Penelope (Victoria Bingham).

Lorraine McNeil, who for years played the character of Elf, passed away in February and her presence was missed. "Lorraine would want us to go forth, with great humour and full of happy thoughts," the program read. "And so we will. But, never forgotten."

The evening wrapped with all performers on stage leading a sing-along of "White Christmas," which included the audience.

Fuel for Warmth provides assistance to those in the Highlands struggling to heat their homes. Fuel oil accounts for about 56 per cent of the requests they receive with 34 per cent needing firewood.

Demand was up 18 per cent last winter over the year before, the charity reports.

Minden Times and Haliburton Echo humour columnist Steve Galea regaled the audience with anecdotes about his family, uncomfortable underwear and why you shouldn't hide things on the top shelf.

Red Hawks roll on, dominate Knights

by DARREN LUM
Times Staff

Two games. Two wins. Optimism is high for the Red Hawks hockey team this season. They just keep winning. Granted, the team has not been challenged, whether by Campbellford in its home opener on Thursday, Nov. 22, or by its recent opponent, the Knights of Norwood. It wasn't even close. They made it look easy, winning 7-1 on Monday, Nov. 26 at the A.J. LaRue Arena in Haliburton.

Head coach Jason Morissette said his team played well in the win and are showing maturity. Despite the easy win, the team was willing to follow through with directions to work on improving play by executing defensive systems. It pleased Morissette, who believes his team is motivated to be their best and succeed because they are seeing the "big picture." Nobody on the team resorted to padding their stats against a team that was obviously outclassed. It's still early, he said. The team can only get better, as teammates are adjusting to one another. If they continue to play like a team with humility, success will follow. On every goal there was an assist, proof of the unselfish play.

Scoring was spread throughout the roster against the Knights. There were five different scorers in the game, including two with a pair. Hawks forward Desi Davies scored the opener a little more than a minute into the game. Midway through the first, Hawks forward Owen Gilbert added another for a 2-0 lead. Even when the Knights Jack Wilson pounced on a rebound and scored, beating Hawks goalie Ethan Glecoff to narrow the gap to 2-1, the Hawks showed little worry. They responded in the final seconds of the first with another goal. Gilbert scored again with what ended up being the eventual game-winner. Scoring also came from Hawks teammates Zach Morissette (two goals), Alex Little and captain Owen Smith. Assists were tallied by Dylan Keefer, Little, Nigel Smith (two), Benn MacNaull, Joe Boice, Nik Dollo and Smith. The win was earned by goalie Glecoff. Morissette said the team is going with four defencemen because Hawks defenceman Braeden Vasey was out of the lineup. He may be back next week, but wasn't certain. As a result, the team will lean on its foursome of Dollo, Little and assistant captains Shawn Walker and Jacob Haedicke. They're not on their own though, as the team has "rover" players to play the blue line (or up front

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

when needed). This includes MacNaull, Lucas Haedicke and Keefer. The coach appreciates the versatility of his players.

The Hawks are taking advantage of a home heavy start to the season.

Four of the first five games are at home. The third game is against the Lindsay Collegiate Vocational Institute Spartans on Wednesday, Dec. 5. It will be their toughest test this season and a great way to prepare them for the Saints of St. Peter Catholic Secondary School at the Kinsmen Arena the day after. The Saints, like the Hawks, are a perennial threat for the Kawartha crown. The Hawks play at home again just before the holiday break on Dec. 19 against TASS.

Morissette said the team striving to get better is important for these tougher teams such as Cobourg, but also to advance deep into the post-season.

"It's a great start," he said.

Midget

The Highlander and Ed Smolen Family Dentistry Highland Storm Midgets had a busy weekend of hockey. It began with a 4-2 loss against the Huntsville Otters in Haliburton, Friday, Nov. 23. An action-packed game from the start. The Storm expected a tough game against the Otters and was down 3-0 by the third period. Frustration set in and the penalties began. Late in the game, the hard work finally paid off when the Storm closed in on the Otters' net and MacNaull found the opening. With just over a minute left in the game, the Storm pulled the goalie for the extra attacker, Huntsville retaliated and the Storm fought back. Seconds left on the clock, Vasey fed Smith and he closed the gap 3-2. Huntsville immediately answered back with a goal ending the game 4-2.

The next day the Midgets ripped the Parry Sound Shamrocks 6-3 in Minden. The Storm started the scoring early in the first. Morissette rushed in, fed Clements and he deftly rocked a wrap-around goal. The Shamrocks managed to tie the game, that ended the first period. The Midgets came out flying in the second. Haedicke collected the puck from Davies, deked through the defence and expertly backhanded in the second goal. Next, Morissette stole the puck at centre, took off on a breakaway and skillfully made it a 3-1 game. The Shamrocks got lucky with another goal, now 3-2. The Storm stepped it up, Haedicke intercepted a pass and gave it to Robinson. He took a quick shot and picked up his own rebound and a goal. Shortly after the Shamrocks got a breakaway and closed the gap, 4-3. The action-filled second period continued as Haedicke controlled the puck behind the net, then found Davies open and ready to secure the fifth goal, that ended the second. Both teams had a slow start. Late in the third, the Storm had some give and go action around the net, from Morissette to Clements and he chipped it in to finish off 6-3.

The following day the Midgets travelled to Huntsville and suffered a 3-1 loss. It was a tough game for the Storm team, short a couple of key players and the Olympic ice surface. They worked hard to end the first period scoreless and Carson Sisson was a pillar in net. Huntsville wasted no time in the second period, scoring seconds into it. The Storm struggled to get control, and the Otters took a 2-0 lead. Minutes into the third period, Haedicke rushed hard to the net, dropped a pass to Robinson, then picked up the rebound for a goal. The Otters continued to dominate and got another goal, sending the Storm team home with a 3-1 loss. Up next the Midgets will take on the Mariposa Lightning on Tuesday, Nov. 27 at 8 p.m. in Haliburton.

They played their first game against their rivals, the Centre Hastings Grizzlies. The Storm fought hard but the Grizzlies got in six goals before Henry Neilson took a pass from Isaac Trotter and fired it in for the Storm. The Storm took a 6-1 loss. However, the Storm outplayed the Lightning the next two periods with goals by Evan Perrott (2), Luke Gruppe, Max Rupnow, and Matt Scheffee. Goalie, Carter Braun, earned himself a shutout and the Storm won 5-0.

match up again in the B championship. The scoring in the B championship game began with a wicked slap shot by Jack Tomlinson from the blue line. Neilson fired the second one in top shelf, still in the first period. The Dukes reciprocated with a goal. In the third period, Perrott took a pass from Gruppe and fired it in, and Rupnow fought off several Dukes as he took the puck the length of the ice to score the Storm's fourth goal. The Storm earned the B Champions title with a 4-1 victory. The defensive team of Jaxen Casey, Easton Burk, Ethan DeCarlo, and Jack Tomlinson, combined with exceptional goaltending by Carter Braun, were essential to the Storm's success. Congratulations to the team for their hard work! Good luck in the Silver Stick tournament next weekend in Pembroke.

Atom LL 1

On Saturday the GJ Burtch Construction LL Atom 1 team travelled to Huntsville to face off against the high scoring little Caesar's LL Atoms. The undefeated Huntsville team had its hands full squaring off against the Storm. Despite numerous scoring opportunities the Storm was unable to get on the board until the end of the second period. Jacob Mantle made some impressive moves to get himself some open ice and put it in the back of the Huntsville net. Assists going to Jacob Davis and Eric Mueller. By the third period with the score 3-1 Huntsville, the Olympic sized ice and the short bench began to take its toll on the Storm. The Storm's Jacob Lloyd had some tremendous saves earning him accolades from the opposing bench staff and player of the game honours. Final 7-1 Huntsville. Next up the GJ Burtch Construction Atoms will host the Silver Stick Qualifier in Haliburton Dec. 1 to 2. Games at 8 a.m. to 12 p.m. and 4 p.m.

Tyke

The Tom Prentice and Sons and Walker's Heating and Cooling Highland Storm Tyke team started their season on Nov. 24 when they travelled to Humphrey arena to take on the Port Carling Tyke team. The Tyke team has been practising hard and have been counting down their sleeps until the first game. They played four on four hockey with two-minute shifts, non-stop play on half ice. The first 22 minute period saw the Storm coming out strong with a goal by Nixon Ecclestone who then followed it up with three more. Blake Hutchinson ended the first period with a goal of his own. Kelson Baghaw opened up the scoring in the second followed up with two more goals scored by Ecclestone. Nash Wilson earned the Storm another goal followed by a goal for Matthew Mueller. Rowan Johnson ended the game with a wicked shot scoring the final goal of this action-packed game. Brady Burke and Cooper Gilbert showed great defensive play and assisted with many of the goals. Goalie Jackson Robichaud showed off his skills by stopping all but three shots made by Port Carling. Up next the Tyke team will be headed to Campbellford on Dec. 8 where they will be participating in a one day tournament.

Novice LL

The Brightwoods Landscaping and Consulting Novice Local League team took to the ice in Bracebridge against South Muskoka Envotek this past Saturday, Nov. 24. Brody Hartwig landed the first goal of the game with only 2:11 left in the first period. The second showed lots of back and forth action with goalie Carter Knapton making some great saves. Storm turned it up in the third dominating most of the period scoring four goals. Zachary Prentice started off just over two minutes in landing a beauty in the net unassisted. Hartwig scored his second of the game assisted by Hunter Hamilton. Tyler Hughes continued adding to the scoreboard assisted by Prentice. And Hartwig ended the scoring unassisted with another hat trick ending the game in a 5-0 score. These players have continued to improve immensely each week and would love your support at our next home game scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 15 at 11 a.m. in Minden.

Novice 2 LL

On Saturday, the Dewayen Simms LL Novice 2 team hosted the Huntsville Near North in Wilberforce. The Storm came to play and everyone was on fire. McCartney Saunders got a hat trick in the first, with assists going to Levi Rowe, Travis Rowe and Mason Latanville. Saunders didn't stop there as he buried his fourth of the game in the second period. Latanville got his first of the game, assisted by Cooper Paterson and Levi Rowe. Twelve seconds later, Lyla Degeer got her first of the season, unassisted. With 25 seconds left in the second, Jacob Manning got the puck in the net for his first of the season, assisted by Colten Simms and Levi Rowe. Brycen Harrison was next to land one in the net at the beginning of the third, with an assist going to Paterson. A minute later Huntsville was finally able to sneak one in but Latanville quickly answered back, assisted by Harrison. Huntsville landed another in the net making the score 9-2. Again the Storm answered back with an unassisted goal from Harrison. Final score 10-2 Storm.

Midget LL

The Highland Storm Pharmasave LL Midgets played a re-match game versus the Highland Storm Total Site Services last Friday in Minden. Like their first meeting the game was very fast paced and entertaining however the game remained scoreless particularly because of strong defensive work by Pharmasave and some very impressive saves by Total Site Services goaltender Damian Harris. Pharmasave did get on the scoreboard first near the end of the second period when Brenden Newhook, in close, buried a lovely pass from Paul Turner from behind the net giving Pharmasave the lead going into the third period. Jayme Coleman had two beautiful scoring chances on an early shift and Paul Turner had another chance as well but Harris continued to make highlight reel saves. Jake Sisson and Sam Hoenow were finally able to get pucks past the feisty goaltender to make it 3-0 Pharmasave. Sisson popped in one more shortly after and Nate Miscio recorded the shutout with help from a strong defensive unit to give Pharmasave a 4-0 win. The Storm was back on the ice Sunday to face against Huntsville. Huntsville didn't waste any time scoring early in the game when a player was left wide open in front of Nate Miscio. Huntsville went up by two at the end of the opening period when again a player was left alone. Teo O'Malley made it 2-1 on a pretty rush finished off with a nice wrist shot. Huntsville regained their two-goal lead in the final seconds of the period to take a 3-1 lead into the third. Huntsville took a commanding three-goal lead on a shot deflected from the point and would go on to win 4-1.

Midget LL

The Total Site Services Highland Storm Midget LL team faced Haliburton Pharmasave Midget team on Nov. 16 at A.J. LaRue Arena. Both teams were evenly matched and there were no goals scored in the first period. Total Site Services' only goal was scored by Caden Little with the assist going to Melissa Brinkos. Final score was 3-1. Many thanks to Parker Casey on a job well done for playing in net as a first time goalie! The Total Site Services Highland Storm Midget team played Parry Sound Tamarack North at S.G. Nesbitt Arena in Minden on Nov. 18. Parry Sound scored two goals, but Total Site Services came back and scored the next three with goals by Caden Little (unassisted), Haley Boylan with assists to Cody Martin and Melissa Brinkos, and Hunter Arnott (unassisted). Great goal-tending by Damon Harriss for keeping his team in the game with his great saves! Final score 5-3 for Parry Sound. The next game is Nov. 23 at 8:30 p.m. at S.G. Nesbitt Arena in Minden.

Waite, William Barnett
July 16th, 1949 to November 19th, 2018

Bill spent the majority of his life on Kawagama Lake near Dorset, and passed away in Minden, Ontario, to join his late parents, Barney and Millie.

Bill was an honour science graduate of the University of Toronto. He was a voracious reader of world history and science fiction, spending a lot of his time at the local library, and was an avid movie buff. He taught himself calligraphy, and even learned to write and read Chinese. Bill spent many years faithfully and lovingly looking after his mother. He was a good friend of Jack Gourlie and Ann Crysedale of Orillia. A beautiful mind and a very kind, sensitive soul. We will miss him.

A private service and interment will be held in the spring. As expression of sympathy, memorial donations may be made to the Heart and Stroke Foundation through the Simcoe Funeral Home, 38 James St E. Orillia. Messages of condolence are welcomed at www.simcoefuneralhome.ca
